

Frequently Asked Questions

Why should I get a subscription to JAGRUTI?

Subscribers have access to - Tables of contents, abstracts, full text searching, full text display, PDFs, links to Medline, future tables of contents and the advantage of having password access to JAGRUTI from any computer connected to the Internet.

Without a subscription you have access to

Tables of contents and abstracts

How can I tell if my institution has subscribed? How do I get my institution to subscribe?

If your institution has subscription, will be eligible to such an electronic version of the JAGRUTI. In so doing, you will automatically have access to the tables of contents, abstracts, full-text searching, full text display, PDFs, etc.

Will I still be able to get the paper version? And for how long?

No paper version to this Journal

Who is eligible for a Subscription?

Individual as well as Institutional.

Individuals are eligible for Subscriptions to JAGRUTI, providing them electronic version of the journal. Subscribers may also have access to JAGRUTI through an Institutional Subscription. Institutional Subscriptions are somewhat more limited than an Individual Subscription. The special individual services are not available to non-subscribers, and full-text access from off of the institution's network (e.g. home access) is not available.

Will I receive a password? May I share my password with friends, or is use limited solely to me?

Yes, when you complete the subscription process, you will receive a user name and a password. You are the only one licensed to use this password.

What if I forget my password?

We have instructions for what to do if you forget your user name or your password. Details about how to do this will be included as part of the subscription process or email to editorjagruti@kanchiuniv.ac.in; editorej@kanchiuniv.ac.in.

How can I access the JAGRUTI if I am not an individual subscriber and I don't have access through an institutional subscription?

You may wish to apply for subscription or you may wish to purchase an Individual (Non-Subscriber) subscription which provides access to the electronic version. Without a subscription you have access to Tables of contents, abstracts, and full text searching (without full text viewing) at no cost and without having to register.

How do I become a subscriber of JAGRUTI?

Information about Subscriber and Registration are available from the JAGRUTI (<https://www.kanchiuniv.ac.in/jagruti/>).

Still have questions?

For further information, please contact the headquarters

Editor

JAGRUTI

Department of Sanskrit & Indian Culture

SCSVMV University

Enathur, Kanchipuram – 631561

India

Email – editorjagruti@kanchiuniv.ac.in; editorej@kanchiuniv.ac.in