The programme is inclusive in that it lays stress on critical skills of interpretation, reading a wide range of literary texts and understanding the language.

Instructional Design

Curriculum design

1. The programme has a well-structured and coherent syllabus, translating specific needs into objectives and learning outcomes that would allow the learner to navigate fruitfully through it.
2. The courses have been designed to impart fundamental knowledge in literature and language, incrementally moving on to more specific topics and areas. The skill enhancement pool of courses addresses the practical and specific needs

Each department is brought under a dedicated school in sync with the subject matter of the discipline. Each school has a Professor as a head of the department and each department has a minimum of 3 faculty drawn from the category of Assistant Professor. The size of the faculty turns to be 5 in case it offers a postgraduate programme. Since, we are offering same discipline for both PG and UG, a minimum of 3 faculty is required. The learner portal in the website is the main pathway for the learners to access the institution. It is multi-functional and has all the features of a vibrant communication system. The complete solution of the university academic governance augments the network with the learner community. There is a dedicated administrative unit for learner affairs headed by a faculty and supported by a competent and resourceful management unit.
